McGeer Gives Outline Of 4-Point Money Plan

Nothing new developed overnight Tuesday in the Rev. Canon M. McGeer-Chapman exhibition case. According to the city police department head, the investigation has reached the stage of watching waiting for the man on the quiver for further word from the exhibitionist who signed himself as "son of Thillinger" in a note received Friday last by the Rev. Canon Chapman claiming that he deposited $10,000 on the steps of Christ Church on the night of having his daughter Margaret kidnapped.

The telephone call from an unknown man to the McGeer-Chapman residence Monday night, was the work of some prankster, police are firmly convinced. They are waiting the next move of the exhibitionist as little can be done to clear up the case until negotiations are again opened.

It is also probable that the guilty party has taken alarm at the publicity of the past three days which disclosed the unsuccessful trial last Friday night when $10,000 was to be paid out, and that nothing more will be heard of the matter.

Two Previous Cases Solved By Police

Contrary to Monday's published reports, the Edmonton police department has been up and against and solved two previous cases which Only after a four-hour siege were police-commanded by their prefect, Roger Clément, in person—able to storm the Communist citadel and drive them to cover. 2,000 parades were on the march. The rioters had begun to build a barricade and dig a trench at the head of a closed street, leading out of the city.

WORLD CO-OPERATION VITAL TO END CHAOS

TOTTERING CHINA NEEDS BIG HELP FOR RECOVERY

Real "Yellow Peril" Is Seen in Appalling Plight of "Sick Dwarver of Asia," Beset From Without and Within

This is the last of a series of five articles on the Chinese situation, by William Philip Simms, noted foreign affairs expert, now touring the world for The Edmonton Bulletin. It is of especial interest and timeliness because of Japan's sharp warning to the world against interference in China's affairs.

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

SHANGHAI, May 2.—Out of the wreck of the post-war peace machinery, there has emerged a "yellow peril" far more menacing than that conjured up in the fancy of former Kaiser Wilhelm II.

The Kaiser pictured the Japanese leading all the yellow races of the Orient in another world-wide march against the white races of the West, like Genghis Khan of old. There isn't the slightest chance that anything like that will happen in the predictable future. Japanese agents are "trying to sell to the Chinese the idea of Nippon's leadership."

Japanese planes fly low over North China, dropping leaflets preaching the doctrine of solidarity of East against West.

But China's antipathy to Japan appears to be growing rather than diminishing, and the Prussian Kaiser's dream seems further from fulfillment than ever.

TIME CAN CURE HER ILS

The real "yellow peril" has arisen from another cause. China, sick dwarf of Asia, is almost moribund.

So also, it would seem, is the League of Nations and other peace agencies, so far as practical war prevention is concerned.

In the absence, therefore, of any real international co-operative effort to prevent such things, fighting could easily break out among the warring factions in the sick dwarf's bed.

One nation, impatient to get at the others, could precipitate a terrible war.

One ray of hope, piercing the gloom, is a growing belief that the League's committee on Manchukuo, scheduled to meet in Geneva May 11, will call for a showdown on Chinese attitude. There is no doubt that a strong stand against Japan would be welcomed in many quarters.

What is the matter with China? Nothing which Time can not cure.

WORLD HELP ADVOCATED

Article 16 of the League of Nations charter, to the League of Nations, declares:

"In the present political instability in China in an obstacle to friendship with Japan and an anxiety to the rest of the world."

"As the maintenance of peace in the Far East is a matter of international concern."

"The conditions of settlement of the Manchurian problem can not be fulfilled without a strong central government in China, the final requisite for a satisfactory solution is temporary international co-operation in the interim reconstruction of China, as suggested by the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen."

The Sun plan calls for 100,000 miles of railroad, 1,000,000 miles of surfaced highway, flood control and irrigation systems, a vast network of telephone and telegraph lines, and three great ports—each comparable to New York—on the north, one in middle and one in south China.

HUGE PROJECTS MAPPED

It calls for schools, city reconstruction and sanitation, water, power, mineral, and agricultural development, reforestation and colonization in Manchuria, Mongolia, Chinese Turkestan, and Tibet.

China is big. She is almost one and a half times larger than the United States, and have roughly equal land resources, the latter a mile of railroad or any other kind of practicable communication.

IGNORANCE IS APPALLING

China is ignorant. Approximately 80 per cent of her masses can neither read nor write.

China is poor. She is 50 per cent poorer than the average farm family's income is about $80 a year, or approximately $1.50 a month, per month. The average wage of a laborer in 20 cents a day.

China is individualistic. There is little community spirit in the sense of putting together for the common good.

China lacks national unity. There is no idea in China to convey the word "nation" and "patriotism" in the American sense.

China lacks power. She has more soldiers than any other nation in the world, but no national army in the true meaning of the term. Almost every province has its warlord and each warlord has an army.

GENERAL DEFIES SANKING

Take General Sun of Chinghai. He was supposed to be under Sinking. Sinking sent him $25,000 a month to pay his seven regiments of troops.

Friction arose between Sinking and General Sun, whereupon it developed that Sinking had seven regiments, he had recruited 40. Refusing to be fired, he took to the field with "the men and means to live off the country."

Sinking has plenty of money. And China has many bandits. Frequently there is little difference between bandits and soldiers. The latter consists of bandits, by nature.

THE END

CHINA'S LARGEST FARM MARKET

China is the largest farm market in the world, but this, under existing conditions, adds to her weakness.

China is big, but her weakness is too weak to protect it. America is heavily involved in the future of this quarter of the globe.

China has enormous interests at stake—not territorial, but economic.

ALBERTA WILL LAY CLAIMS AT OTTAWA TODAY

Brownlee-Hoadley Hearing Proceeds Before Government

OTTAWA, May 2.—The government will complete its disposition of the appeal of the British Columbia government Wednesday for a substantial loan or guaranteed loan, and will then turn its attention to the case of Alberta, which was represented here by Hon. J. E. Brownlee, premier of that province, and Hon. George Hoadley, minister of agriculture.

Mr. Brownlee has several matters to take up in addition to financial. He will make fresh unemployment relief agreements and deal with the coal producers of this province and eastern British Columbia in seeking the same treatment in respect to coal subsidies as that accorded the Nova Scotia miners in getting their product to the central market.

The coal question was taken up yesterday and a sub-committee of the Alberta delegation went into technical conference with officials of the Dominion fuel board and department of mines.

Wetaskiwin Golf Club Annual Dance

WETASKIWIN, May 2.—The annual dance of the Wetaskiwin golf club was held in the Elks' Hall, Tuesday evening and was well attended considering the inclement weather which has prevailed since Sunday.

In opening his address, Mr. Blue said that feudalism existed in the west under the charter which had been given to the H.B.C. and that actual government had not begun till 1811. Several decades had passed before representative government had come into being.

The H.B.C. controlled Rupert's Land by a charter given by the Crown in 1682, but under the Imperial Act of 1868 all this territory including the North West Territories, was handed back to the Crown. The state was then clear for Dominion control of the west.

He then proceeded to deal with the North West Council, of which the lieutenant-governor was a voting member. The council was in this body, said the speaker, owing to the fact that the revenue for the operation of the government was from two sources—territorial revenues and a grant from the Dominion government at Ottawa. The council had power over the territorial revenues but could not touch the grant made by the Dominion government. Only the lieutenant-governor, the minister of the interior had the right to say how the grant would be spent.

Finally he had come real representative government, with a legislative assembly, the present form of government. Canada, Mr. Douglas occupied the chair.

Outlaw Nelson Tip A Fizzle

WISCONSIN RAPIDS, Wis., May 2.—Federal officers, again sought clues to the whereabouts of George (Babe) Facey Nelson, Dillinger gang killer, after what seemed a promising tip collapsed last night.

A telephone call to Chicago officials from the federal bureau of investigation by a local resident who suspected a stranger who came here several days ago and entered a Wisconsin Rapids hospital might be the mobster sought for the slaying of a federal agent a week ago, brought squads of agents rushing to this city.

The "suspect," whose name was not divulged by officers, was determined to be a bona fide patient at the hospital.

Given China's vast spaces and few communications, it is impossible to do much about it.

The answer is for the world to take the Lytton accommodations at their face value and co-operate with the Chinese in restoring their house to order. All China needs is a chance, and unselfish co-operation from the other powers.

FULL INFORMATION

The local branch of the Alberta Motor Association is receiving letters from many parts of the United States and Canada regarding the highway to Jasper Park.

It will be easy to answer the letters. All that is necessary is to enclose clippings from the Bulletin relating to the highway. Many souls who have made the trip over the highway, or tried to, during the last few rainy days.

That will give the enquirers all the information they want about the highway. It will also end the correspondence with them for the present season. Motor tourists do not plan their outings with as much advance planning as a ditch looking at a water-logged landscape and a road allowance filled with bog holes.

UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURES

One of the charterers of the bank has made a careful survey of the published figures reports on unemployment, along with information available from its own sources, and gives the following as the situation at the beginning of March last:

It is calculated that in October, 1928, the number of wage-earners in the Canadian industries, excluding agriculture and the employees of governments and municipalities, was about 2,244,000. By April, 1930, the number had shrunk to 1,747,000. In the year ending in the present year it was estimated to have risen to 1,950,000, a recovery during the year of 275,000. Assuming that the number of wage-earners in the year ending in the present year is 1,950,000, the number of those employed in October, 1929, were idle in the spring of this year. A deduction of those who have been laid off since that time shows that the number of those who have died and those who have passed on the old age pension line in the interval. And to arrive at the total there must be added those farmers who have been driven from the wage-seeking class by crop failure and the collapse of farm incomes; farm hands whose wages have been cut; and those who have been laid off by the same factors; the employees of the Dominion and provincial governments and the municipalities; and the army of boys and girls who have grown into wage-earners since 1929.

Taking these items into the calculation, it is obvious that the reported 275,000 increase of those wage-earners in the year ending in the present year is not the total number of those unemployed. The net reduction in the unemployment total has been about 100,000. The figures are not so good. From which the inference seems reasonable that somewhere between 650,000 and 700,000 employed wage-earners were without employment in the spring of this year. The rate is somewhat less than that of unemployed wage-earners for each two employed, all classes taken into account. On the other hand, the rate of the population of the Dominion were directly suffering the consequences of unemployment when spring opened.

OUR PROVINCIAL DEBTS

Hon. H. J. Stevens, it is said, is trying to convince his cabinet colleagues that the Dominion should "shrink" the debts of the four western provinces, adding the sum to the national debt and giving the provincial governments a clean sheet.

Mr. Stevens is pushing it not persuasive, but he has undertaken a large contract if this report is true. The debts of the four western provinces are about $100,000,000. The interest charges of about $30,000,000. If Mr. Stevens can persuade the minister representative of Ontario, Quebec, and the maritime provinces to undertake the same, the Dominion would consent to take upon themselves this great burden of western debt, he will have secured something.

There just isn't a chance in the world of the eastern taxpayers doing that, or of their representatives in the Dominion. The Dominion does not like Mr. Stevens' colleagues may not see much hope in their political future, but they are not at all likely to commit themselves by promising to undertake the same. The Dominion is not likely to take upon themselves this great burden of western debt, he will have secured something.

instruct the Central Bank to call in provincial bonds as these become callable and pay them off in sound local tender currency at their face value, charging up the amounts to the provinces without interest.

That would leave the debts where they belong: leave the provinces in control of their own finances; free the taxpayers of the hardship of having to pay interest on their own credit; and put hundreds of millions of real dollars in circulation. That the provinces have a right to demand, is all they have a right to expect, and—unfortunately—is a good deal more than they are getting.

The western provinces are not mendicants begging for charity, and they would not get it if they did ask for it. They have a perfect right to demand, and keep on demanding until they get it, that is that they be freed from the boomerang financial system that compels them to pay back two or three dollars for every dollar they have borrowed or may borrow to build a highway or put up a public building.

KATHLEEN MACAUREEN

Kathleen Macaureen the gray dawn is breaking.

The horn of the hunter is heard on the hill.

The lark from her light wing the bright dew is shaking—

Kathleen Macaureen! what slumbering

Oh, hast thou forgotten how soon we must sever?

Oh, hast thou forgotten this day we must part?

It may be for years, and it may be forever!

Oh, say art thou silent, thou voice of my

Oh! say art thou silent, Kathleen Macaureen?

Kathleen Macaureen, awake from thy slumbers!

The blue mountains glow in the sun's golden

Ah, where is the spell that once hung on my numbers?

Arise in this beauty, thou star of my night!

Macaureen, Macaureen, my soul tears are falling.

To think that from Erin and thee I must

it may be for years, and it may be forever!

Then why art thou silent, thou voice of my

Then why are thou silent, Kathleen Macaureen?

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

You never know your friends. I've just received an expression of affection which the west coast fishermen have for Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett. It's the lot of men in office these days to receive many harsh expressions about themselves. When one of these expressions comes one, it should be recorded.

It came unexpectedly in a letter inviting me to go to the west coast for the week on a power troller, fishing for spring salmon in the open Pacific, off the west coast of Vancouver Island. In sending the invitation to go cruising one more with him, my fishermen friend wrote:

"Perhaps you will be in J. S. Cowper" interested in the daily routine of a fisherman. At 2.45 a.m. all hands get up. 3 a.m. breakfast. 3.30 a.m. depart for the banks, usually pitch dark and thick fog. Run various times and courses to position for two hours to gain about 12 miles offshore. Begin fishing, vessel running times and courses in the fog so to keep position, as you will not likely see land for a bearing all day, and must be exact in your position in order to make your landfall at night. Usually a big run running and pitch fishing, hauling and rolling heavily all day.

"Six p.m. haul gear and make for shelter. 8 p.m. anchor in harbor and have dinner. Engineer goes over the engine and prepares for morning, rest of crew work on fishing gear if necessary. All goes well and the vessel is ready to start again on every day in the week including Sundays. At the end of two weeks you could sleep in a bed of porcupines. And, of course, when you get back you're dead, it's just so much tougher."

He warns me that he may take three days before I'll be in a fit state to enjoy it. I can come this unexpected note of warning to my Premier, slaving his life away in Parliament, attending banquets and running risks while travelling the country.

"Some of the boys were saying the other night that they'd like to have Premier R. B. Bennett out of the country. They'd like to see a stiff southerly gale off Cape Beale and Pachaena Point. They all agreed they'd give up a week's wages for the pleasure of it. It would be wonderful to be loved like that for oneself alone."

From my present eye overlooking Vancouver harbor ready to float in position in the new day, I can see the span for the Second Narrows bridge. The former narrow bascule span near to the Vancouver side of the narrows has been abandoned. The new lift span will be in the center of the bridge. Two great steel towers have been erected at either side of the span. When air ships want to pass over the bridge, the section of the bridge will be lifted about 150 feet in the air.

The old bridge, despite its great vehicular and air traffic, has been a great success. It is a paying bridge, had repeated had luck, due to penny-wise engineering. The tide steadily refused to alter its course and run under the bascule span. The tide steadily refused to alter its course and run under the bascule span. Treating With Electricity

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

You all know how much I preach the philosophy of self-cure and believe the patient should learn to cure himself and not depend upon others for help except to learn from intelligent physicians how to cure himself. Habits of living to good ends. Yet there are times when one is unable to get good advice regarding diet, exercise, etc., and the necessity of relying upon some treatment to assist in bringing about a change for the better. A short outline of the treatment of the different ailments by electrotherapy may be of some help in encouraging you.

Dr. F. McCoy. To consult a modern physician who has the proper electrical equipment to give such treatments. It is the first essential that you understand how this force can bring about a change in the body. The different forms of electricity can be used to produce either a mechanical or chemical action on the bodily structure, and many times these two actions are combined in one treatment.

The sinusoidal current will affect a muscle so as to contract it. By turning the current on and off the muscle contracts and relaxes in much the same manner as if exercise were being used. By the use of an alternating current this current can be applied to any of the voluntary or involuntary muscles, and thus the muscle is strengthened in a very short time.

The treatment is especially useful in developing a better tone to the abdominal muscles and those of the large intestine, which muscles are weaker than normal with the majority of people. You can readily see to what number of uses this contracting electricity can be put to good benefit. Prolapsed organs of the abdomen can be raised to their normal position with the resultant good effects which can then be maintained by substituting simple physical exercises for the electrical treatment.

I have barely touched upon the uses of electricity in the treatment of the body. I trust that if you are not well you will secure electrical treatments to help while you are learning how to live as to stay well.

SIDE GLANCES - By George Clark

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

You all know how much I preach the philosophy of self-cure and believe the patient should learn to cure himself and not depend upon others for help except to learn from intelligent physicians how to cure himself. Habits of living to good ends. Yet there are times when one is unable to get good advice regarding diet, exercise, etc., and the necessity of relying upon some treatment to assist in bringing about a change for the better. A short outline of the treatment of the different ailments by electrotherapy may be of some help in encouraging you.

Dr. F. McCoy. To consult a modern physician who has the proper electrical equipment to give such treatments. It is the first essential that you understand how this force can bring about a change in the body. The different forms of electricity can be used to produce either a mechanical or chemical action on the bodily structure, and many times these two actions are combined in one treatment.

The sinusoidal current will affect a muscle so as to contract it. By turning the current on and off the muscle contracts and relaxes in much the same manner as if exercise were being used. By the use of an alternating current this current can be applied to any of the voluntary or involuntary muscles, and thus the muscle is strengthened in a very short time.

The treatment is especially useful in developing a better tone to the abdominal muscles and those of the large intestine, which muscles are weaker than normal with the majority of people. You can readily see to what number of uses this contracting electricity can be put to good benefit. Prolapsed organs of the abdomen can be raised to their normal position with the resultant good effects which can then be maintained by substituting simple physical exercises for the electrical treatment.

I have barely touched upon the uses of electricity in the treatment of the body. I trust that if you are not well you will secure electrical treatments to help while you are learning how to live as to stay well.

COURT RULING OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Decision Handed Down in Damage Action Against Municipality

Important rulings on the relations between farmers and their municipal districts are given in a recent judgment handed down by the Supreme Court. The ruling was given following a damage action brought by Chris Rivett, farmer, against the municipal district of Strathcona, No. 10, and the City of Edmonton. The ruling was given by the court, P. J. Gauthier, J.C., for the district.

The case had its inception in the fact that a road was built across the farm of the plaintiff, and the construction of the road was in breach of some terms of the farm lease. The road was destroyed by a fire spreading from the roadworks, and it was alleged that as a result of the fire the plaintiff's cattle were killed and the stock was damaged to a large extent. The plaintiff sought damages and a return of the road for the use of his farm.

CANNOT AD PLAINIFF

His lawyers say. At the close of the argument I made certain findings of fact and now after a careful examination of the law and the facts I find that the plaintiff cannot recover. It is a principle of law that the plaintiff must prove that the defendant is liable for the damage. The plaintiff has failed to do this.

The subject of the promise to the plaintiff was a road which was built across the farm of the plaintiff. The road was destroyed by a fire spreading from the roadworks, and it was alleged that as a result of the fire the plaintiff's cattle were killed and the stock was damaged to a large extent. The plaintiff sought damages and a return of the road for the use of his farm.

Aviation Circles Report "All Quiet"

Continued quiet prevailed in local aviation circles on Wednesday. Unfavorable weather combined with the arrival of the "oil" "inhibitor" caused a few planes stationed at the airport to leave. Pilots Wm May and Lewis Leigh of the local flying club were flying from their base at Cameron Bay, Great Bear Lake, to nearby points, while Pilot Harry Hester of Mackenzie Air Services, is similarly engaged.

Do You Remember: 'WAY BACK WHEN . . .

Missionaries and priests of the Roman Catholic church played a splendid and conspicuous part in the early settlement of the Edmonton district and all of Northern Alberta. Such men of the cloth as Father Lacombe, Bishop Lord, Bishop Grouard, Father Leduc and others will be remembered as long as the church flourishes and Christianity prevails. In the group shown herewith are some of those self-sacrificing missionaries who counted no contribution too great to make to the welfare of humanity.

CROWE TROPHY

DOESN'T EXIST, WINNER FINDS

LONDON, Ont., May 2—A lot of people seem to have been fooled about this Morton H. Crowe trophy, the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada's annual award to the outstanding athlete of the year. Only yesterday, Jimmy Bull, veteran Winnipeg quarter-miler who won the award for 1933, was wondering where it was.

Well, there just isn't a Morton H. Crowe trophy. President Howard Crocker of the A.A.U.

The question arose when an admirer asked Ball in Winnipeg what he had to look at the trophy, but Ball said he couldn't show it because he didn't have it. Sports writers learned about the situation and immediately started a hunt to find
